Shortly before that time a messenger was sent to Mr. Perin's rooms and that genileman awakened and his presence at the farnace asked for as soon as possible "as there was something the matter." Mr. Perin was not long in dressing and resching the place; noticing both turns standin about doing nothing, he inquired as to what the matter was, and by way of reply was handed a heavy gold-headed cane, appropriately engraved. He was too much surprised and gratified to make much of a reply, but from his manner, it was evident that the thanks he gave utterance to were sincere. During the calender year just closed there have been levied thirteen assessments, and the amount collected and disbursed. Seventy-one deaths have occurred and the losses paid. The amount collected into the benefit fund during the year is $230,000, and the amount paid out $229,000. Of this amount $10,000 have come to Wheeling. This is more than the entire membership of the city will pay into the treasury in three years at the highest rate of assessments yet levied. Two years ago there were thirteen assessment levied, while last year there were but nine. Since the organization of the order there have been paid into the benefit fund $453,036 de, and $447,088 57 paid out. It sounds a little monotonous to be constantly beasting of Wheeling enterprise. Wheeling akill and Wheeling taste, but it must be permissible to speak of a piece of work turned out of a local shop as a companion to the brougham—namely a set of double harness made to order for the turnout by Mr. William Schwartleger. There is nothing finer in Pittaburgh, as anybody can be eatisfied who will inspect the harness before it leaves Mr. Schwartleger's establishment on Main street, above Twelfth.

It would be useless to attempt a description of the harness, because there are so many fine points about such work that only a person well acquainted with it can distinguish them.

The harness was designed by Mr. Schwartleger, whose excellent taste is displayed at arey point, and was made by A. J. Beifert, torsman of the harness department, who is one of the best and most perfect workmen in this line. The harness is made of the finest materials and of the very latest pattern known as the English coach, and is mounted and made in silver and rubber. It is neat and rich, but not the least gandy. All the latest improvements are put upon it, and silver monograms and initials are placed at various points, and add to the general effect.

It must be a source of considerable local pride that the finest private equipage in Wheeling is of home make, and that in harness as well as the vehicle itself it will compare favorably with the best Eastern or European work.

Fifteen Hundred People Pa. take of the Temperance Lunch, and Hundreds Bign the Temperance Pledge.

The watch meeting and temperance free unch at the Capital rink Saturday night was as successful in its results as it was unique and original in its conception. Over fifteen hundred people were serve with coffee, doughnuts and sandwiche and the attendance was good constantly close long after midnight. The interest never lagged. The leaders of the meeting were changed every hour, Messrs. G. W Atkinson, G. W. Baggs, N. W. Beck, Wiliam Hastings and J. M. Dowler succeding each other in conducting the exercises each of them making stirring speeches Bemarks of a practical and effective char acter were also made by Major Camp and Messra. Sam Oreighton and George Fuller.

Mrs. Camp added much to the success Mrs. Camp added much to the success of and pleasant character of the services by her fine singing. At midnight, by re-quest of a number of drinking men, the choir sang "Nearer, my God, to Thee." This was joined in heartily by the large audiance, and was very solemn and im-

Yesterday there were three successful meetings. In the morning Major Camp spoke eloquantly, his theme being, "Love and Home." In the afternoon his discourse was a logical one, his subject being, "Bose the Bible Teach Total Abstinance?" At each meeting, there was a course was a logical one, his subject being, "Does the Bible Teach Total Abetinance?" At each meeting there was a goodly number signed the pledge.

Last night the attendance was the largest that has greeted Major Camp since his meetings began in this city. Over two thousand people were in the rink and many left, unable to obtain entrance. Twenty drinking men sent forward a request that the Christian people of Wheeling would pray for them, that they might live up to their resolution and reform There was a large number signed the pledge, nearly as many as on Saturday night, when 125 names were added to Major Camp's list of signers. The exercises were all earnest and interesting.

This week the Capitol rink will be occupied by the annual ahow of the Wheeling Poultry Association, and therefore other accommodations will have to be soured for the temperance meetings. This evening the meeting will be held in the German Methodist church; to-morrow evening at the North Street M. E. church, and Wednesday and Thursday evenings at the G. A. R. hall. At all these meetings Migor Camp and other good speakers will talk. The work so far has done incalculable good in Wheeling, and should not be allowed to lag for want of encouragement.

Last Night's Queert.

The Opera House orchestra gave another of its semi-monthly Sunday night releasmals at Arion Hall last night. The attendance was quite large and all were delighted with the programme, which was an unusually popular one. The first part was made up of Weiderman's "Festival" march; the charming Raymond overture by Thomas, and Lehman's walt "Sea Roses," The second part opened with that heavy and at the same time very attractive composition of Verul'a, the finale of "Macbath." Other numbers were a Christmas idyl, a paraphrase of "Stille Nacht, Heil'ge Nacht," by Volkmann, selections from Elienburg, Steteld and Listrich and Bucalossi's happy descriptive conception "A Hunting Scene."

All the numbers were well received.
The hall still wears the holiday decorations put up by the Arion for its Christmas hop, and gave quite a festival air to the occasion.

Indeed these famous brothers have never, since their boyhood, made a failure of anything connected with the stage, and their names slaone attached to the play of "Fantasma," would be a sufficient guarantee of its great worth. Through the play of "Fantasma," would be a sufficient guarantee of its great worth. Through a knowledge of the managerial ability and honesty of these gentlemen alone, their play might be highly endorsed, but further than this we have sujoyed the privilege of witnessing its performance, tand can therefore, speak the more positively as to its merit. A better play of its kind than "Fantasma" has never been seen in America, and as such deserves the crowded honses it is drawing at the Fifth Avenue Theatre.

NORTH,

I undoubtedly leads on to consumption. It refore singular that those afflicted with the arful disease should not make it the object of eir lives to rid themselves of it. Deceptive rem-its concocted by ignorant pretenders to medical nowledge have weakened the confidence of the eat majority of sufferers in all advertised rem-es. They become resigned to a life of misery ther than torture themselves with doubtful pai-titives.
